The Water Footprint Assessment Manual Jan 31 2021 People use lots of water for drinking, cooking and washing, but significantly more for producing things such as food, paper and cotton clothes. The water footprint is an indicator of water use that looks at both direct and indirect water use of a consumer or producer. Indirect use refers to the 'virtual water' embedded in tradable goods and commodities, such as cereals, sugar or cotton. The water footprint of an individual, community or business is defined as the total volume of freshwater that is used to produce the goods and services consumed by the individual or community or produced by the business. This book offers a complete and up-to-date overview of the global standard on water footprint assessment as developed by the Water Footprint Network. More specifically it:

- o Provides a comprehensive set of methods for water footprint assessment
- o Shows how water footprints can be calculated for individual processes and products, as well as for consumers, nations and businesses
- o Contains detailed worked examples of how to calculate green, blue and grey water footprints
- o Describes how to assess the sustainability of the aggregated water footprint within a river basin or the water footprint of a specific product
- o Includes an extensive library of possible measures that can contribute to water footprint reduction

Business Behaviour Oct 16 2019 Student Unit Guides are perfect for revision. Each guide is written by an examiner and explains the unit requirements, summarises the relevant unit content and includes a series of specimen questions and answers. A Content Guidance section combines an overview of the specific unit or module and the key terms and concepts, with an examiner's interpretation so that students understand precisely what they need to understand and learn, the skills required and the potential pitfalls. A Question and Answer section provides graded answers, typically A and C, to questions which have been set to reflect the style of the unit. All responses are accompanied by commentaries which highlight their respective strengths and weaknesses, giving students an insight into the mind of the examiner.
